Service Awards Presented to More Than 70 Classified, Non-Classified Staff

Nearly 1500 years of service to Marshall University were celebrated on Wednesday, May 15, as service awards were presented to classified and non-classified employees at milestones of 15, 20, 25, 30, and 40 years, as well as to those retiring from Marshall during the past year.

Marshall President Dr. Dan Angel presented the awards, which included picture frames, clocks, watches, and MU jewelry.

'Ashes to Glory' to Be Released Nationally

"Ashes to Glory," the video documentary profiling the 1970 Marshall University air disaster and the rebirth of the Thundering Herd football program, is currently being edited for national distribution to public television stations.

The two-hour documentary was released in November 2000 to coincide with the 30th anni-

Journalism Hall of Fame Inducts Eight

Eight people have been inducted into the MU School of Journalism and Mass Communications Hall of Fame, according to Dean Hal Shaver.

The honorees are Fran Allred of Huntington; Howard "Moo" Cochran of Charleston and Okeechobee, Fla.; Martin Kish of Lexington, Ky.; Linda Grist Cunningham of Rockford, Ill.; Wayne Faulkner of Chicago and John Wilson of New York City. Jane McCoy Hambric and Clyde Wellman were honored posthumously.

Allred, a 1964 Marshall graduate, is metro editor of The Herald-Dispatch in Huntington, where she began as a reporter in 1972.

Cochran is a retired news editor of The Charleston Gazette, which hired him after he received his journalism degree in 1952.

Kish is Vice President of Communications of The Valvoline Company, and has worked in public relations for Ashland Inc. or one of its divisions since graduating from MU in 1976.

versary of the crash. Now being edited down to a 60-minute version, the video will be distributed to PBS stations nationwide through the Columbia, South Carolina-based National Educational Telecommunications Association.

The acclaimed documentary has been recognized with a Midwestern Regional Emmy Award by Hollywood's Excellence in Media Organization and Worldfest, Houston's first place platinum award for documentaries.

Cunningham is executive editor of the Rockford (Ill.) Register-Star, and in 1999 was named Illinois Journalist of the Year by Northern Illinois University.

Faulkner is editor of the real estate section of The Chicago Tribune, which in 2000 was named the best in the country by the National Association of Real Estate Editors.

Wilson began his reporting career in Florida at The Ft. Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel. He now is the assistant editor on the Science Desk of The New York Times.

Cunningham, Faulkner and Wilson are all 1972 Marshall graduates.

Hambric, a 1970 graduate of Marshall, was a teacher at America's High School in El Paso, Texas, until her death in 1997. In the fall of 2000, she was memorialized when a new K-8 school in El Paso was named the Jane A. Hambric School.

Wellman graduated from Marshall in 1908. He was editor of the Huntington Advertiser from 1920 until 1956, and was noted for his service to the community.

Note of Thanks

The family of Ella M. Brumfield Zirkle would like to thank the Marshall University family and friends for their support during a difficult time in our lives.

We would like to thank you for the donations sent to the Memorial Fund for her children's education and the beautiful flowers that we enjoyed at the service. Many cards were sent and appreciated.

We do ask for your continued prayers for understanding and for her family. Patsy Stephenson and Jenny Holderby, her sisters at Drinko Library, appreciate all your love and support. Ella was a very proud employee of Marshall University. She will be missed by many.
